All year, students in every grade have been entering music class or beginning music class with different styles of music playing. It is called QUILT time (Quiet Un Interrupted Listening Time) and we use it to get our minds focused and ready for class. Lots of different styles are shared so students can hopefully find something they like and can use at home if they choose. We have also discussed how music can affect your emotions and overall mood and have spent some time thinking about how the song of the day makes us feel.
